NARRATIVE SUMMARYI. COMMAND, OPERATIONS, AND TRAINING

A. During the period covered enemy activity showed a slight decrease. In Phu Thu, however, CACO 3-3 continued to discover numerous small caches and bunkers. Three CAPs were relocated during this period and the Company Headquarters for CACO 3-5 was relocated to Truoi Bridge. Liaison was established with the Thua Thien Popular Force Training Center. Arrangements were made to utilize the PF firing range and maneuver areas in the 1st and 3rd week of December. An additional Sergeant, ex-CAP Leader, was assigned to the S-3 training section to assist in this training program. The training to be accomplished will be refresher training for CAP personnel and will be primarily aimed at improving the night firing capability of the CAP. Ten Marines and ten Popular Force soldiers will attend each two and a half day training session. Results of this program will be discussed in the next reporting period.

B. Another effort to improve the effectiveness of the CAP during this reporting period was the introduction of an after-action check list. The primary aim of this program is to insure a good critique of significant enemy contact and to compile a file that can be utilized as a "Lessons Learned" folder for new personnel.

C. Weather was a problem although this month had none of the heavy rains that occurred in October. Over cast days and light rain was typical during this reporting period. Road conditions continued to be bad in Phu Thu however operation was not greatly hindered by weather.

The number of Med-Caps was approximately 1,000 above the month of October. Construction projects completed numbered more than in previous months, but the commodities distributed were of a lesser quantity and variety than those of the month before.
